Words of Encouragement

“When we know God, it is not that we merely know less about God than God knows about Himself, we also know God is a different capacity than God knows Himself. The finite cannot contain the infinite. We can only ever know God as a creature knows the Creator. God always knows us as the Creator; He knows Himself in infinite perfection. We will never attain to God’s level. The difference between how God knows something and how I know something is not simply a difference of quantity (i.e. God simply knows more) but also a difference of quality (i.e. God knows as the originator of knowledge). We can only know things as image bearers.”
